Jacob Epstein was an American-British sculptor who helped pioneer modern sculpture. He was born in the United States and moved to Europe in 1902, becoming a British subject in 1911. He often produced controversial works which challenged ideas on what was appropriate subject matter for public artworks. He also made paintings and drawings, and often exhibited his work.

Sir Jacob Epstein (born Nov. 10, 1880, New York, N.Y., U.S.—died Aug. 21, 1959, London, Eng.), one of the leading portrait sculptors of the 20th century, whose work, though seldom innovative, was widely heralded for its perceptive depiction of the sitter's character and its modeling technique.

Jacob Epstein was a sculptor who sought to express the power and grandeur of human life in works which, at the same time, expressed the power of the materials that he used to create them. For Epstein, both the subject matter he carved and the material he carved it in had an inherent dignity.

The lewd, the crude and the ugly: Epstein's sculpture / a
On the 10th of November 1880, sculptor Jacob Epstein was born in New York, yet he is best known as an English artist, having settled in Britain in 1905. As a Jewish American in Edwardian London working in a rough, stylised modernist manner, the critical reception of his work was far from friendly. Epstein has...

Jacob Epstein Artworks & Famous Paintings / TheArtStory
After WWI, Epstein re-evaluated his fascination with the concepts of the mechanical (avant-garde), as well as life-force (vitalism). His works now reflected a certain religious shift. The risen Christ is one of his most controversial bronzes, because of the lack of either Christian or Jewish iconography.
